

"Modernism Defined: Julius Shulman & Richard Neutra"

November 11, 2000 - January 6, 2001

535 West 22nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10011

Yancey Richardson Gallery is pleased to announce the opening exhibition at our new Chelsea gallery, "Modernism Defined: Julius Shulman & Richard Neutra". Running November 11, 2000 through January 6, 2001, the exhibition is comprised of an extensive selection of vintage photographs of important structures by Richard Neutra, one of the most highly acclaimed architects of the 20th century. Shulman, widely recognized as one of the most important photographers of modernist architecture, took his first architectural image of a Neutra building in 1936. Neutra's enthusiastic response to the photographs helped launch Shulman's career and the two continued to work together for the remainder of Neutra's life. Shulman ultimately photographed 90% of what Neutra built and is credited with interpreting and exporting the ideas of modernism to the rest of the world through his images.

The exhibition celebrates Shulman's 90th birthday and coincides with the release by Taschen of Richard Neutra - Complete Works, a definitive volume on Neutra's work in a large-scale limited edition book, illustrated primarily with Shulman's images. Also this fall, Taschen is publishing Modernism Rediscovered, a book of Shulman's photographs of the work of lesser-known but important modernist architects. Concurrent with our exhibition of Shulman's Neutra photographs, Donzella, a gallery of 20th century design, will feature an exhibition of Shulman's photographs of the interiors of Paul Laszlo, a recently rediscovered mid-century California designer. Donzella, located at 17 White Street in New York City, can be reached at 212-965-8919.
